COMMENT OF THE DAY

Taipei Riots

ON the evidence so far available it is difficult to list all the reasons behind last Friday's riots in Taipei. There may be only one—public discontent with the finding of the Court Martial into the killing of a Chinese citizen by an American serviceman. It is possibly fair to assume that even if the authorities allowed a demonstration which has not yet been proved—they never expected such a violent reaction. A much greater danger than the possibility of harming US-Nationalist relations is the effect of a demonstration of anti-American feeling could have in the mainland and if there are realistic people in Formosa who are concerned with the survival of an independent China they ought to be wholly concerned with eliminating any opportunity that the Communists might seize to further their Formosa liberation campaign.

Besides the Chinese Nationalist authorities have made an apology—voluntarily—and appear to be as shocked as the Americans at the violence of the eruption. Unlawful elements are blamed, which may suggest that Triad gangs got to work quickly and exploited the prevailing discontent, or that Communist agitators have somehow penetrated the Nationalists' security network.

THE other possibility is that the authorities do not know who to blame and there might, despite the assurances of Dr. Hsiang-shan in Washington, be some deep sense of grievance felt by Chinese on Formosa at the behaviour of American servicemen towards their countrymen. It should be recalled that Police were slow to take action and the initial protest demonstration apparently passed unchallenged which gives rise to suggestions that it was authorised.

America and the Nationalists must now wish for a hasty restoration of order. Better reason exists than the need to exhibit unimpaired relations to those who watch from across the Formosa Strait. But behind the scenes the Americans are sure to demand exhaustive inquiries. This is only to be expected. They will, however, find only half the answer if they assume the Chinese are wholly responsible for the episode.

OBVIOUSLY there must be some local resentment at the fact that foreign servicemen invited to partake in the defence of a friendly state are above the local law. The Chinese have been remarkably tolerant about this position considering that no agreement has apparently been reached in the seven years since the KMT lost China and retired to Formosa. Also the Chinese are old allies of the Americans and must still remember thankfully the part played by the late Mr. Franklin Roosevelt in securing the voluntary abolition of extraterritorial rights of the foreign powers in China. Chinese people in Formosa may be pardoned if they now feel that Taipei is in no position to argue the point when the Americans are helping to defend the Nationalists against the most crucial threat they have known; if this is the feeling the innuendo ought not to be missed by the Americans.

From this one incident a lot of nasty conclusions can be drawn. With a little more presence the Americans might have averted the whole wretched business. The Court Martial's findings ought now to be submitted to a higher court for consideration. Unless this is done these nasty conclusions may take root and the effect can only be extremely harmful to American-Chinese relations.

CONFIDENCE IN DISARMAMENT PLAN

Delegates Return To London Conference

London, May 26.

US delegate Harold Stassen and Russia's deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin flew back to London today bringing their governments' answers to a "break-through" disarmament plan they worked out in secret bilateral talks here.

It was learned that Stassen and Zorin had carefully worked over details of the new arms-cutting proposals before flying home 10 days ago to seek final decisions in Washington and Moscow.

The decisions remained secret pending the resumption of the United Nations disarmament conference tomorrow. Zorin reached London shortly before midnight. Stassen was due back tomorrow morning.

COMPROMISE PLAN

Diplomats believed — without official confirmation — that a compromise partial disarmament plan would include:

★ Limitation of nuclear tests amounting virtually to suspension as soon as the present British Christmas Island and American test series are completed.

★ Agreement to call a conference of nuclear scientists to work out the problem of enforcing a halt to production of nuclear weapons, probably early this autumn.

★ "Swift installation of the 'open skies' aerial inspection system proposed by President Eisenhower in 1955, to operate at first over test areas of the Soviet Union, United States and possibly Canada.

★ A setback of American and Soviet military manpower on active duty to 2.5 million men each at first and in

"I am confident that the decisions made by President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles during my stay will improve prospects for a durable peace... and lessen the dangers of war," he told reporters.

CONSULT ALLIES

He said one of his first steps on arriving in London will be to consult with "our Western partners" before renewing talks with the Soviets in the afternoon.

Stassen cautioned against expecting swift results from the talks.

The problems involved were "too important and too complex," he said.

This makes it "impossible for any government to reach quick answers," United Press and Reuter.

Observation Planes Ready

Washington, May 26. HUNDREDS of American jet planes, specially equipped with cameras and radar for ground observation, are ready to take part at short notice in any aerial inspection system that might be worked out with Russia.

It was revealed today. Air Force officials said the aircraft and trained crews would be ready at short notice because the proposed aerial inspection system was almost exactly the type of mission for which they were designed.

Detailed planning, would, however, be needed to decide the fields from which the aircraft would operate, the air corridors through which they would enter the inspection zone and other factors.

Officials said the actual job of photographing the vast areas of the Soviet Union or the United States could probably be done in a few weeks.

As an example, the officials said a strip 2,700 miles long and 400 miles wide, reaching from New York to Los Angeles, could be recorded on film in less than four hours.

High-altitude, broad-range photos would be supplemented by detailed pictures, made either at low altitude or by long focal length cameras at high altitude.

Such photos can show aircraft on the ground, allowing them to be identified by type and numbers, entrances to underground installations, any structures above the ground and other features.—Reuter.

HAROLD STASSEN
Will Take Time

a second stage to ground two million men if no hitch develops.

★ Enforced "mothballing" of a percentage of H-bomb-delivering bombers other major types of modern military like submarines.

★ A formal renunciation of the right to build H-bombs and A-bombs by the big nations that do not have them now—namely France and West Germany. France was already told the conference it will renounce building nuclear weapons if the big powers agree to stop production.

PLAINLY CONFIDENT

Americans were plainly confident that Russia's internal economic situation and the world's realisation of the H-bomb peril had brought agreement at least on a "first step" disarmament plan in sight after 11 years of wearing stalemate.

Before leaving Washington, Stassen told reporters the new American arms reduction plan "will improve prospects for a durable peace."

He added that he will negotiate "carefully and cautiously" with the Soviet representatives to try to reverse the "competitive arms buildup" in the world. He expected the negotiations to take "considerable time."

Stassen reaffirmed that the American plan was aimed at "small, measured steps" of arms reductions and not a sweeping agreement which would cover all weapons.

LEADING ALGERIAN MURDERED CROWD BEAT UP HIS ASSAILANT

Paris, May 26.

Moslem politician Ali Chekkal, who was with the French delegation during the United Nations debate on Algeria last autumn, was shot to death today while he was leaving the French national soccer cup match at Paris Colombes Stadium.

Storms Still Plaguing Texas

Dallas, May 26.

The weather dealt new blows today in storm-plagued Arkansas and Texas.

More than 5,000 persons were homeless in the flood-soaked Dallas-Fort Worth area and more torrential rains were expected. Sewage overflowed into flood waters in Fort Worth and mosquitoes posed a major problem. Some homeless were forced to take refuge in cow barns.

One death was reported in the new Texas storm.

In Arkansas, workers fought furiously to hold a levee along the rain-swollen Arkansas River south of Dardanelle.

If the levee breaks, 20,000 acres of land planted to corn and cotton will be flooded and 200 homes will be under water.

GLOOMY NEWS

Weather forecasters had nothing but gloomy news for residents of the southwestern area where a seven-year drought was broken weeks ago with rainstorms that reached near-monsoon proportions yesterday. Scores of tornadoes have whirled through the area, bringing death and destruction to many.

Fort Worth was the hardest-hit area today. A 4.12-inch deluge fell on the city of 300,000 population in only 24 hours, swelling the Trinity River and a number of creeks and flooding low-lying areas.

Evacuations continued in the Crestwood area of West Fort Worth. Some fleeing residents worry suggested the name of the area should be changed to Crestwater.—United Press.

The gunman, Mohammed Ben Sadek, was engulfed by bystanders and severely beaten up before police dragged him away.

Chekkal, 60, former President of the Algerian Assembly, had been on the Algerian rebel "death list" for months.

French President Rene Coty witnessed the second half of the soccer game but was nowhere near when Chekkal was shot down.

Chekkal was discussing with friends the 6-3 goal victory of F.C. Toulouse over Angers when the assassin stepped out of the milling crowd, estimated at 30,000, and fired a single shot into Chekkal's back.

DIED IN HOSPITAL

Chekkal died soon after being taken to the hospital. The assassin was taken to the central police headquarters for questioning.

Former Algerian Governor-General Marcel Edmond Naegelen commented, "I knew he was on the death list of the Front de Liberation Nationale (FLN) rebel organisation, who had instructed its members to kill him wherever they could find him. That is why he did not go back to Algeria."

Chekkal was the number one proponent of the French thesis that Algerians are Moslem Frenchmen, and that Algeria is a French province. He kept campaigning against the Nationalists even when France dissolved the Algerian Assembly two years ago following its boycott by Moslem members.—United Press.

Cairo, May 26. Plans for an oil policy agreement between the Arab States and the creation of an Arab tanker fleet will "be among the most important" topics to be studied at the current session of the Arab League's Oil Committee here, a responsible League source said tonight.—United Press.

MURDERED COUNTESS RECEIVED THREATS

London, May 26.

SCOTLAND Yard detectives today pressed a search for the murderer of the elderly Polish Countess Teresa (The Angel) Lublenska, who was reported to have received several death threats before she was slain in an underground station.

The Yard declined to comment on its progress, if any, in what was being billed as a spy case with political implications possibly dating back to the Countess' days in a World War II Nazi concentration camp.

Newspaper reports said the once-wealthy Countess, who had lived on relief in London since she was told the police a week before a silent attacker plunged a knife into her back and stomach five times, on Friday night—that "my life has been threatened."

The same sources were quoted as saying she had been threatened with death three times before she told her story to Scotland Yard.

Scotland Yard was reported to be searching for two possible witnesses.

The possible witnesses, a chestnut-haired man of about 27, who may be a foreigner, and a woman in her twenties, rode in the same train as the Countess and got off at the same stop in the residential Kensington district, according to France-Press.

The police were still searching for a motive for the murder of the Countess, who was President of an organisation of Polish ex-political prisoners in Germany.—United Press & Reuter.

ANTI-AMERICAN RIOT IN TAIPEI WILL HURT U.S. IN ASIA

Washington, May 26.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, former US Ambassador to India, said today that Chinese Nationalist anti-American rioting in Formosa "is going to hurt us in Asia."

Terming the incident "terribly unfortunate," Cooper said it will give the Chinese Communists grist for their propaganda mill. The Chinese Communists already have praised Formosans for staging the riots and urged them to get rid of Americans.

Sen. George Smathers, who appeared with Cooper on a television programme, cited the disorders to back up his demand for cuts in President Eisenhower's foreign aid funds.

The Senators' statements came as Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kai-shek fired three top Formosa security officers for failing to prevent Friday's riots. The Army Commander-in-Chief took personal charge of the Taipei defence command.

HATE AMERICA

Smathers said the United States has given Formosa $3,500,000,000 in military aid and $775,000,000 in economic aid and still "they hate America." He said Congress now realises that "possibly we aren't doing right" in giving away large sums all over the world.

Cooper countered that the Formosan riots could not be used as an argument against the entire foreign aid programme. He said the question is "whether it is important to our security to do what we are doing in Formosa."

Mr. Clement Zablocki (Democrat-Wisconsin), Chairman of a House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on the Far East, said a "more complete educational programme" might help hold down outward shows of superiority by Americans in lands where US standards range far higher than those of the local populace.

HAPPEN ELSEWHERE

Senator Mike Mansfield (Democrat-Montana) said US defence officials overseas should be "subordinate to the decisions of the American ambassador in the country in which they are stationed."

"What has been happening in Taipei and Japan may well foreshadow similar happenings in other parts of the world... where American troops are stationed," added Senator Mansfield.—United Press and Reuter.

10 KILLED IN TURKISH QUAKE

Istanbul, May 26.

A total of 10 persons were killed and at least 24 were seriously injured today when an earthquake rocked Bala and Adapazari, near the Black Sea, some 180 miles east of Istanbul.

The quake, which lasted over a minute, was also felt in Istanbul, Ankara, Smyrna and other towns. Seven of the casualties occurred at Bala and three others at Adapazari. The toll was expected to go higher as other victims were dug out of the debris of houses. The exact extent of the damage was not yet known.—France-Press.

Mayflower II Covers 80 Miles

London, May 26.

The sailing ship Mayflower II headed toward the United States at a steady four knots today and reported, "All's well."

Australian Captain Alan Villiers radioed that the ship was steering west in mid-Atlantic. He said she had covered 80 miles in the past 24 hours and was within 840 miles of the West Indies. Her latest reported position was 21 degrees north 59 degrees west.—United Press.

MARS (OR MOSCOW) DOESN'T LIKE BRITAIN'S H-BOMB

London, May 26. NOW it's Mars, by way of Satellite Three, that doesn't like the idea of Britain's having the H-bomb.

The Empire News reported today that the "so-called warnings from space against the H-bomb tests" take a similar line to Moscow-inspired propaganda. It said they were published in a magazine published by the American Society and widely read by Britons who believe in flying saucers.

Scotland Yard's hush-hush Special Branch is said to be investigating the source of warnings which are directed at a number of flying saucer clubs which today's report said are suspected of unwittingly being used by the Communists.

The little men from Mars—or maybe Moscow—said in the Society's magazine "You in the West blame Russia and say it is necessary to make these weapons to protect yourselves from them. You in Britain are in a favourable position to show the larger countries the way."

"You," the message tells its readers, "are responsible." It is listed as originating in "Mass Sector Six, reporting from Satellite Three," the Empire News said. George King, founder of the Society, said it opposes nuclear tests and wants nuclear weapons banned, and added that because of its view some people believe its members are Communists.

"It is easy to put the blame on Communism, but I say that neither I nor any of my committee is in any way connected with Communism."

Then, looking backward, he added: "It is just a coincidence that our space brothers and the Russians urge the banning of these terrible weapons. Our society is non-political, non-capitalist, and we only put over the message that we receive from space."—United Press.

USIA 'Crippled' By Cuts

SENATE SLASH
WOULD WEAKEN
AMERICA'S VOICE

Washington, May 26.

A high official of the US Information Agency said today that Senate cuts in its funds would "cripple" America's foreign propaganda programme and could lead to dangerous Soviet gains in the cold war.

Mr Abbott Washburn, deputy USIA director, said the Senate slash, if sustained, would force major cuts in virtually all USIA programmes at a time when the Communists were sharply expanding their worldwide propaganda.

He made the statements in an interview on the eve of a Senate-House Conference Committee meeting to work out differences in an appropriations bill carrying funds for the operation of the USIA, State and Justice Departments for the next fiscal year.

"America's voice will be weakened," said Mr Washburn. "We can't do an adequate job or anywhere near an adequate job in meeting the Communist competition."

Shake Morale

He also feared the Senate cut might shake morale in his agency by forcing "several hundred" layoffs and "reopen the scars" left from the McCarthy days. This referred to investigation of USIA by the late Senator Joseph McCarthy four years ago.

"We have to become a political football again when for 3½ years we've been doing a quiet job of strengthening the United States Information programme," he declared.

Mr Washburn said the Senate slash to $90,000,000 compared with this year's budget of $113,000,000, would seriously "cripple" the agency. He expressed hope that the Senate-House Conference Committee would restore the full House figure.

Actually, he said, the Senate figure is much lower than $90,000,000 since USIA did not consider a new million-dollar Middle East transmitter authorized by Congress as part of its operating budget. From the remaining $89,000,000, Mr Washburn decided $1,000,000 in employee retirement costs, previously paid from other appropriations, which USIA must pay next year, and another $2,000,000 in liquidation expenses.

Heartsick

That would leave USIA $85,000,000 next year.

Mr Washburn said he had been "up all night" several nights "figuring out what the Senate cut would do and was 'heartsick' at the conclusions. Among other things, he said:

★ The USIA programme in Western Europe would be "knocked in two" at a time when the Soviet Union is putting 60 per cent of its free world propaganda into that area. Russia's goal is to destroy the North Atlantic alliance and split the allies.

★ Plans for propaganda work in Africa, expanding battleground of East-West ideologies, will have to be abandoned. USIA planned to open 13 new posts in Africa, about a dozen reading rooms and provide courses in American studies in universities.

★ The output of the agency's two overseas printing centres—in Beirut and Manila—will be cut in half, although the Communists are pumping more literature than ever before into the critical Middle East and Far East. The centres furnish "ammunition" in the way of newspapers, magazines, books and leaflets to combat Communism in Asian and Middle Eastern regions.

★ The radio "Voice of America" will be cut by about $2,000,000 although the Soviet radio output is now about double this country's and growing steadily. Last year Moscow increased its broadcasts 10 per cent to 2,097 hours compared to this country's 1,138 hours.

★ Virtual shutdown of USIA's booming TV programme now used in 30 countries. These countries have been getting weekly air shipments of TV programme on current affairs, US position on major events and shows from domestic networks such as "Firestone Hour" and "Omni-bus".

★ Low-cost books, cut from $1,500,000 to $500,000—"another heartbreaker". The Communists are flooding the Far East and Middle East with cheap paperback books costing from five to 20 cents. The US programme is two years old and doing "quite a job" in places such as India, where the "classics of American democracy" series, featuring Jefferson, Paine and others, is successful, there is a "terrible hunger for this sort of material".

★ Film output will be cut from $7,200,000 to $4,700,000 while the Russians are spending $125,000,000 this year alone on films.

"I could go on programme by programme," said Mr Washburn. "We will have to cut everything to the bone. They are asking us to do a Solomon-like job of choosing between our own children."—United Press.

EGYPT TO BUY SYRIAN
CEREALS

Damascus, May 26.

Faud Halabi, chief of the Syrian Presidential Cabinet, today reported to the Syrian Cabinet on his recent talks in Cairo with Egyptian President Nasser.

After the meeting, Premier Sabry Assali, commenting on Halabi's report, indicated the decision of our sister country, Egypt, to buy large quantities of cereals in Syria.

Assali said this decision was "of a nature to strengthen the economic relations between the two countries, and even to establish an economic union between them, which will be followed, we hope, by total Arab unity."—France-Press.

NEW ITALIAN
GOVERNMENT TO FACE TEST

By PATRICK CROSSE

Rome, May 26.

Italy's new Christian Democrat government will go before Parliament on Wednesday and may fall a few days later when the Prime Minister, Senator Adone Zoli, seeks a vote of confidence in accordance with Italian constitutional procedure.

His Catholic Party lacks a majority in both Houses and can no longer count on the support of the small Democratic lay parties, which the past ten years have helped the Christian Democrats to rule Italy.

The new government faces two parliamentary dangers—to be voted down or to survive with the help of the neo-Fascists and allied monarchists.

CANNOT AFFORD

With general elections only ten months away, the leaders of the Christian Democrat Party have reportedly decided that they cannot afford to allow a government they have formed to exist only by virtue of extreme Rightwing votes.

The Socialist Party of Signor Pietro Nenni, still linked with the Communists, has promised to help the new government survive if it will promote a movement for banning nuclear experiments and for disarmament and if it fulfils other conditions in domestic policies.

Christian Democrat spokesmen have already rejected these conditions, not because all of them are unacceptable to the party but because they wish to limit the programme of the government to what can be achieved in the ten months before the elections.

NOT CLEAR

Signor Amintore Fanfani, leader of the Party, has declared that, formed in conditions of emergency with a minority in Parliament, the new government must not present itself to the country with a programme reflecting the whole policy of the Catholic Party.

The exact position in Parliament is not likely to be clear until some days after Premier Zoli has disclosed his programme to the Senate on Wednesday.

The Senate vote is likely to be taken on June 3. If the government survives, it will face another vote in the Chamber of Deputies around June 7.

Senator Zoli formed the new government last Monday, after the fall two weeks before of the Centre Coalition cabinet headed by Signor Adolfo Segni.—China Mail Special.

Prince Charles
Not Recovered

London, May 26.

Prince Charles, who has been staying at Holkham Hall, Norfolk, with the Earl and Countess of Leicester while his parents have been in Denmark, is still not "one hundred per cent fit" after his tonsils operation just over a fortnight ago, it was disclosed today.

The eight-year-old heir to the throne was to have attended church this morning in the village of Holkham, but did not appear.

The Reverend A. F. Inglis, who conducted the service, said he had received a message from the Earl of Leicester last night that Prince Charles was not one hundred per cent fit.

Prince Charles left London on Friday and drove down to Holkham—his first outing since his operation on May 8. He spent three hours on the beach at Holkham yesterday afternoon. Meanwhile his parents—the Queen and Prince Philip—were sailing home today from Denmark in the Royal Yacht Britannia, which was reported to be heading for Scotland in bright sunshine and calm seas.

The Queen and Prince Philip are due to arrive early tomorrow morning at Moray Firth and later the Britannia will enter Cromarty Firth where the Queen will visit the Home Fleet.

The Queen will visit several ships of the Fleet on Tuesday and will embark on the aircraft carrier Ark Royal for a flying demonstration on Wednesday before flying back to London.—Reuter.

Bombers 'Pound' Britain

London, May 26. United States and British jet bombers theoretically pounded Britain from bases ranging from Norway to the Mediterranean today in Britain's biggest air defence exercise since World War II.

The Royal Air Force announced that heavy "enemy" attacks in which Britain's defence forces were given their first major test in simulated warfare hit points throughout the country during the night and early this morning.

"Defending" forces reported intercepting several planes of the combined US-British attack formations more than 100 miles from the British coast—five times as far away as German Luftwaffe bombers were stopped during World War II. "A large number" was "shot down" into the English Channel.

The four-engined Vulcans, simulating nuclear bombers, attacked in two waves on a 300-mile front. One force flew from the Shetland and Orkney Islands and swept down over Scotland and Northern England. The other consisted of South-east Norway and struck Britain's northeast coast.

Other attacks in what the RAF dubbed "Exercise Vigilant" were carried out by Canberra jet bombers and American F-100 Super-Sabres and B-57s swept over East Anglia.—United Press.

NASSER TO VISIT GREECE

Athens, May 26. Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's official visit to Greece will probably take place in July, a Greek Foreign Ministry spokesman said today.

Nasser expressed a desire to visit Greece immediately after the Egyptian elections in July, the spokesman said.

The Greek Ambassador to Egypt, Dimitri Lambros, reported on his talk yesterday with Nasser was greeted with great satisfaction in Greek government circles. Informal sources said the report contained important statements on the status of Greeks in Egypt, as well as interesting proposals for Egyptian co-operation with Greece on the international level.

The Ambassador also gathered the impression that Greece's acceptance of the Eisenhower doctrine for the Middle East had been "perfectly understood and accepted," by Nasser, the sources said.—France-Press.

Effect Of London Talks On Reunification

By RALPH HARRIS

Gettysburg, May 26. Dr Konrad Adenauer, the West German Chancellor, arrived here today for talks with President Eisenhower.

The talks, which will move to Washington tomorrow, assumed especial significance in the light of the disarmament negotiations with the Soviet Union and the forthcoming West German elections.

United States proposals to be made at the Five Power Disarmament Talks in London next week, German Re-unification, Western Defence and other European problems were on the agenda for the three days of conferences.

Mr Eisenhower and Dr Adenauer opened their exchanges informally over lunch on the glassed-in porch of the President's Gettysburg farm overlooking the historic civil war battlefield.

After a week-end of rest in the country, the 61-year-old Chancellor flew from New York this morning in the President's two-engine jet—commander plane. He made no statement on his arrival and was sped to the farm by car only seconds after Major John Eisenhower, the President's son, greeted him at the airport.

Adjust Policies

Dr Adenauer's visit, his fifth to the United States, was described by officials here as an opportunity to review and adjust policies as the United States tested Soviet intentions, and to prevent misunderstandings in German-American relations which could affect the West German elections on September 15.

Dr Adenauer is regarded as a staunch support of Nato and the Western defence system.

The long tenure of his Christian Democratic Government is being challenged by the Social Democratic party of Mr Erich Gellert, and officials do not rule out the possibility that the Soviet Union might try to influence the election against the Chancellor.

Some officials today expressed the view that the Soviet Union or the East German Government might make an offer on re-unification which could seriously complicate the Chancellor's position.

Political Threat

Linked with this potential political threat was the effect which a Soviet-United States disarmament agreement might have on German re-unification.

Dr Adenauer was expected to seek strong formal assurances from the President on this score.

Informal sources said Mr Eisenhower was well aware of the Chancellor's insistence that West Germany's position on re-unification must not be jeopardized by the disarmament negotiations.

He was expected to tell Dr Adenauer that the United States would do nothing affecting West Germany without seeking its approval in advance.

Dr Adenauer was seriously embarrassed earlier this month by reports suggesting that the United States was willing to negotiate a "first step" disarmament agreement and an aerial inspection zone based on the present partition of Germany.

The programme is to continue throughout the International Geophysical Year which begins on July 1 and runs for 18 months.—China Mail Special.

Mr John Foster Dulles, the United States Secretary of State, firmly denied these reports at a Washington press conference. He also stated that in any event the United States was thinking of an "experimental" inspection zone in the Arctic, where there were fewer political problems and countries than in Europe.

Dr Adenauer was said to be anxious to clear any lingering doubts of misconceptions among the West German voters by incorporating a strong assurance from the President in the joint communiqué to be issued at the end of his Washington visit next Wednesday.

President Eisenhower, 16, was seen here, was ready to make it clear that the United States would not agree to "any" the problem of Germany re-unification until the situation in Europe was such that the country was in a better state.—United Press.

'STRENGTHEN TIES,' SAYS BRENTANO

Washington, May 26. German Minister of Foreign Affairs Heinrich von Brentano said today he was confident that the talks between his government and the United States that begins here tomorrow "will contribute to lessening international tensions and serve as a milestone on our road to peace and freedom."

Von Brentano and his party arrived by plane from New York at 1753 GMT. He was greeted at the airport by Robert Murphy, Deputy Under-Secretary of State, other US State Department officials and members of the German Embassy staff.

Von Brentano said he was glad to have the opportunity to be in the United States again and meet the American people.

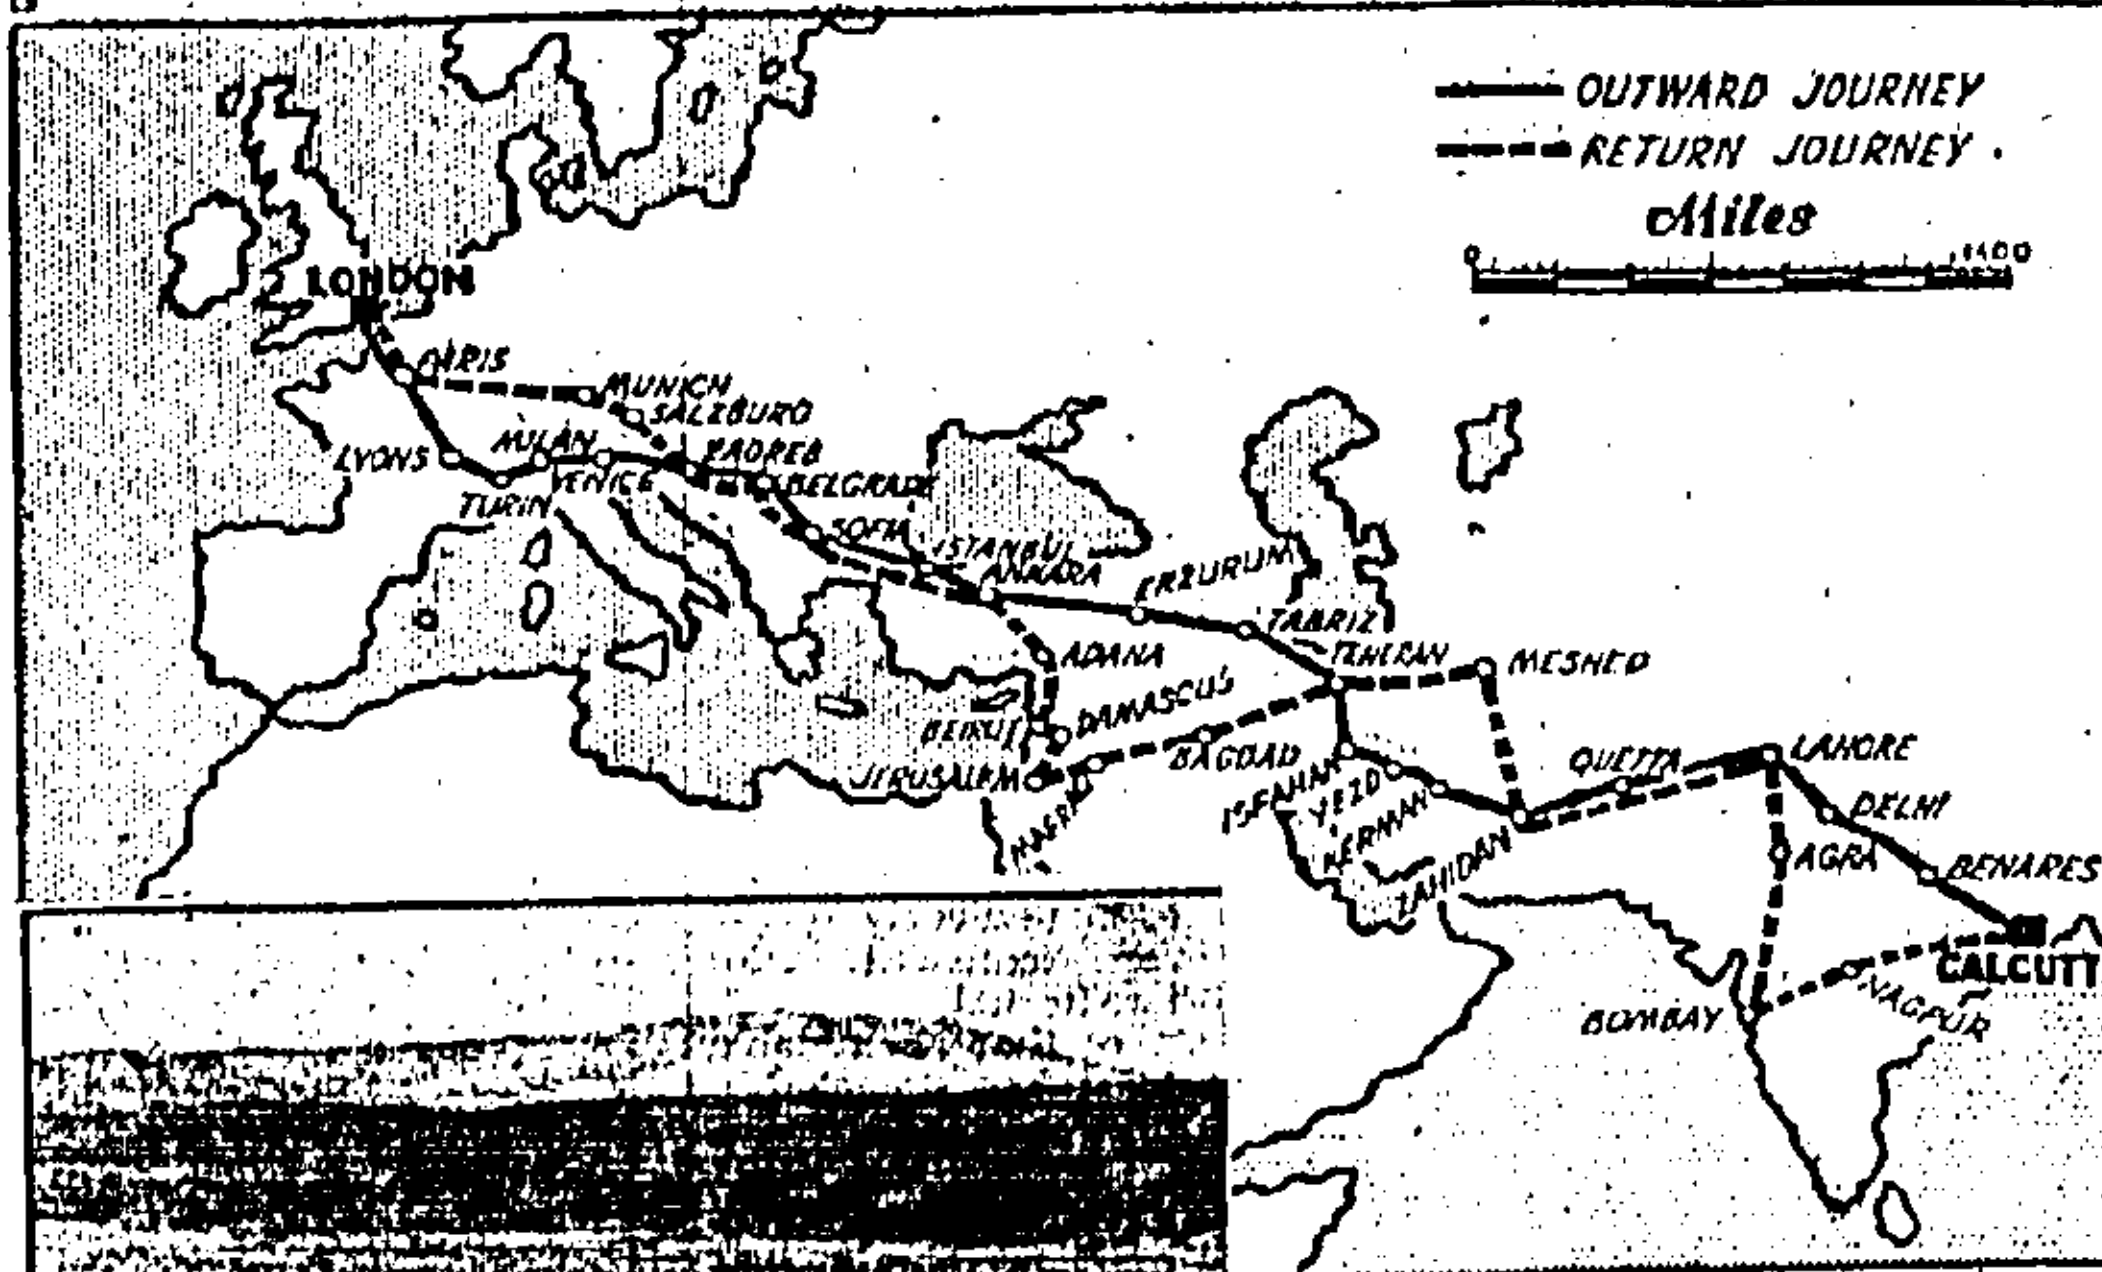

"I am sure that this forthcoming meeting will help to strengthen the ties of friendship between the American and German people," he said.

Brentano and his party left immediately for Blair House, the White House guest house located across the street from President Eisenhower's residence.

A German Embassy spokesman said von Brentano would rest for a while and then greet Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and President Eisenhower.

The official talks begin at 1530 GMT tomorrow when Adenauer and von Brentano will call on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at the State Department.—United Press.

London. In Middlesbrough you can still take a bus ride for a penny. You can go from end to end of the route for three pence.

But there is one remarkable bus service on which it will cost you £85 to travel from one terminus to the other. Since the route is 10,000 miles long (that's about one mile for two pence) and passes through 16 different countries, that ticket is pretty good value.

100.4 BELOW ZERO AND STILL ALIVE

New York, May 26. A group of 18 Americans camped at the South Pole have experienced lower temperatures than any other human beings, the New York Times reported today.

The newspaper said that on May 11, the temperature was 100.4 degrees below zero (Fahrenheit), by far the lowest temperature recorded to date on the earth's surface.

Previously, the coldest recorded place on earth was 89.9 and 93.7 degrees below zero, the newspaper said.

It said the cold was one factor in a general loss of weight among the men. By May 1, seven of them had lost 25 pounds or more.

Explaining this, Dr Robert Darling of the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University, said exposure to extreme cold greatly increased the number of calories required by the body.

Dr Paul Siple, scientific leader of the South Pole station, has reported that even at 100 degrees below zero, it was possible to go outside the camp buildings without ill effects, the newspaper said. One man had spent half an hour outdoors in that temperature.

The men will be cut off from the outside world until next September. The camp was established to join more than 1,000 other outposts throughout the world in observing earth-quake weather, the earth's magnetism and other such phenomena.

The programme is to continue throughout the International Geophysical Year which begins on July 1 and runs for 18 months.—China Mail Special.

EARTH TREMORS RECORDED

Trieste, May 26. A violent earth tremor, the epicentre of which was estimated to be about 100 miles south of here, were registered early this morning by seismographic instruments of the local observatory.

Observatory officials said the first earth tremor "of exceptional violence" was registered at 0735 and 44 seconds (0035 and 44 seconds GMT).

Two other minor shocks were registered at 0030 and 0100 and 1015 and 56 seconds. The officials said they presumed the shocks took place on the southern coast of Crete.—United Press.

Czech Delegation To Visit Yugoslavia In June

Prague, May 26. A Czech Government delegation headed by Mr Viliam Siroky, the Prime Minister, will visit Yugoslavia next month on the initiative of President Tito, usually reliable sources said here today.

The visit, likely to begin between June 23 and 28, will be the first by a government delegation from a Communist state since relations between Yugoslavia and the Eastern Bloc worsened after the Hungarian rising last autumn, when Belgrade condemned Russia's armed intervention against the rebels.

The Czechoslovak Communist leaders are considered amongst the most loyal to Moscow in Eastern Europe.

President Tito, expelled from the Cominform in 1948, originally issued the invitation to Czechoslovakia early last year after his "rehabilitation" by Moscow.

But the visit was "forgotten" when the Yugoslav Government openly backed Hungary's short-lived "National Communist" leader, Imre Nagy.

INVITATION

Yugoslavia revived the invitation early this year, according to the sources. Czechoslovak leaders agreed to accept it after some hesitation though the official press here kept up its attacks on Yugoslavia. The last major attack appeared in Rude Prava, the Communist Party newspaper, last month.

The last visit of a high-level Czechoslovak delegation took place in May, last year, when parliamentarians led by Mr Zdenek Fierlinger, a top politician, arrived in Belgrade for over a fortnight.

Economic and cultural relations between the two countries improved swiftly after President Tito's "rehabilitation," culminating last year in Czechoslovak sending 228 million sterling, mainly to meet claims by Yugoslavia for compensation done her economy by a Cominform economic blockade after 1948.

ANNOUNCEMENT

It was announced in Belgrade by the Yugoslav Foreign Affairs Secretary that the Czech Government delegation would visit Yugoslavia in the second half of June.

The announcement did not give any exact date or the length of the visit but said it would be at the invitation of the Yugoslav Government.

President Tito's 60th birthday yesterday was marked by a number of warm greetings messages from Communist officials and the President himself said relations had improved.

JAPAN & PAKISTAN AGREE ON FOREIGN POLICY

Karachi, May 26. The Japanese Prime Minister, Mr Nobusuke Kishi, said here tonight that it was "heartening" that Japan and Pakistan agreed on general lines of foreign policy.

Mr Kishi, who is here on an official visit during a tour of South-east Asia, was replying to a toast proposed by the Pakistan Premier, Mr H. S. Suhrawardy.

"I believe we should further explore and extend the fields of co-operation in order to promote mutual interests and make a greater contribution to the cause of world peace," Mr Kishi added.

"We are convinced that the guarantee of peace and justice in the world lies in faithful observance and implementation of the principles of the United Nations charter."

"The nations in Asia are facing the common problem of developing their respective national economies."

Prosperity

"It is my belief that only through prosperity and justice can peace in Asia be firmly established."

"I would like to add that Japan is prepared to co-operate in the implementation of your Five-Year Plan and I would like to see our trade with Pakistan further increased."

"I am happy to have had fruitful talks with your leaders regarding ways and means of further promoting trade and economic co-operation between our two countries," Mr Kishi declared.

Mr Kishi added: "It is most gratifying on the occasion of my visit that a cultural agreement between Japan and Pakistan will be signed. I am sure that this agreement will go a long way towards promoting mutual good understanding and in bringing the two nations closer together."

Mr Suhrawardy, proposing the toast, welcomed closer ties with Japan and said that like Japan, Pakistan was "wedded to the cause of peace."

Want Peace

He said: "Unlike those who are interested in perpetuating the status quo, and talk of peace with a view to consolidating wrongful gains, the people of Pakistan sincerely want peace in order to enjoy the freedom they cherish and reap the fruits of their labour."

"It is our firm conviction that lasting peace cannot be ensured either by preservation of the status quo or by the repetition of pious slogans."

"All international disputes should be resolved by peaceful means in accordance with the principles of the United Nations charter."

Mr Suhrawardy continued: "Those who refuse to abide by the decisions of the United Nations do not believe in peace, whatever their protestations, and when such decisions clash with what they imagine to be their own self-interest, they should be denied the benefits they derive from the august body."

"Ever since the emergence of Pakistan as an independent nation, it has been the cardinal principle of our policy to forge strong ties with Japan."

"The Government of Pakistan will explore all avenues for fostering and increasing economic co-operation in the field of industry, commerce, trade, and business between the two countries."

"I am happy to note that our two governments share an identity of views on major international issues."—Reuter.

SYRIA TO RESERVE RIGHT

Damascus, May 26. Syrian Premier Sabry Assal said in an interview published today by the newspaper, Al-Katib, that Syria reserved the right to take any measures necessary to safeguard her rights in case the United Nations Security Council did not persuade Israel to take down the bridge built on Lake Hula.

In the same newspaper, Syrian Defence Minister, Khleed Azam was quoted as saying that the Syrian Government was now consulting with its Arab brothers to decide on a joint position in regard to the Israeli bridge.—France-Press.

Premier Reports To King

Peshawar, May 26. Afghan Premier Sardar Daub Khan, who returned to Afghanistan two days ago after completion of an extensive European and Middle Eastern tour, submitted his report yesterday to the Afghan King.

The Premier returned in time for Afghanistan's 39th anniversary of independence, celebrations of which will open tomorrow with a visit of government and military leaders and foreign diplomats to the royal palace.

A dinner will be held in the evening, after a day of sports, fairs, folk dances and other amusements.—France-Press.

YOUR BIRTHDAY ... By STELLA

MONDAY, MAY 27

BORN today, you have more than an average gift of manual dexterity and you should be able to do something special either in the area of drawing and painting or in the trades where hands are needed. You are probably a superior surgeon, as well. Although your major interests lie in the realm of the arts, it is possible that you might also enter business or finance, since you have a good head for figures, know how to handle money and can make pennies turn into dollars.

You have an exceptional sense of humor and your wit sometimes approaches sarcasm. Make use of your gift for the spoken and written word and become an influence upon those surrounding you. Since you are a leader at heart, you are not inclined to follow others but will take the initiative. You are ambitious; but your love for humanity will never permit you to advance at the expense of others. Should you ever come into a considerable fortune, you will want to help those who are in need.

Your emotions are strong and you are quick-tempered. There probably will be one great love in your life and you will make great sacrifices for your beloved. You expect reciprocity, however, and expect undivided allegiance and devotion once you have given your love.

Among those born on this date were: Julia Ward Howe, composer; Arnold Bennett, author; Dante, poet; Nathan Straus Jr., Cornelius Vanderbilt and Joy Gould, financiers; John Kendrick Bangs, humorist; and Nathaniel Green, Revolutionary War patriot.

To find what the stars have in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

TUESDAY, MAY 28

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Stars are favorable to your interests now, so clear up your future.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—You should make real progress now. Push your best efforts at this time.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Be adventurous now. Go out after what you want without delay. Progress will only result in loss.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Combine social and business affairs for the best possible results. Brainwork brings success for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Begin completing detail work connected with the month's major project and get it finished before the end.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23)—Today may seem to be routine, but it means completing a job so you can be prepared to go on with another soon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—A trip may bring joy and happiness now. Expect material success into your orbit. Receive a reward.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Postpone any new project until later on and be sure to finish up old business first. Tidy up your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—A highly productive day. Jupiter is making deals and better your position in old affairs. Question new ideas before committing yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20)—Make detailed plans and better your position in old affairs. Question new ideas before committing yourself.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20)—Business and finance are under an auspicious aura and you can be assured of achieving immediate success.

Taurus (Apr. 21-May 21)—Co-operative efforts appear to offer the best success. By helping others, you actually help yourself.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Convention Is Often Misused

By OSWALD JACOBY

MOST bridge players play the Blackwood convention as if the partner of the four no-trump bidder is supposed to become a sort of ventriloquist's dummy and simply show his aces and kings on demand.

In expert bridge this is not the case. Any time the four no-trump bidder follows with five no-trump his partner is privileged to go on to seven if he possesses solidity of suit that his partner cannot know about.

The following hand bid by Martha Hammond and Sue Camp at last year's Wichita Falls tournament illustrates this.

When Mrs. Camp sitting North bid four no-trump she planned to go to six spades if Mrs. Hammond showed her ace ace. When Mrs. Hammond showed both missing aces she bid five no-trump with no intention of going on to seven herself but merely to give her partner a chance to go to seven if she held very good trumps.

Mrs. Hammond did hold very good trumps and led right to seven spades over her partner's five no-trump.

The grand slam required careful handling, since all four trumps turned up in the West hand. Mrs. Hammond won the opening heart lead and trumped a second heart with dummy's seven. She returned to her hand with a low spade and got the bad news about the trumps. Now she could not afford to ruff out the last heart. A club was played to the ace and a club trumped. A spade was played to the ace and another club trumped.

When both opponents followed to his third club lead, dummy's king and jack of clubs both became good. Mrs. Hammond drew trumps and made her grand slam.

WOMANSENSE

Fancy Barbecue Equipment To Please The Outdoor Chef

New York.

THE kitchen's annual vacation is here, giving housewives a partial rest from pots and pans and giving the men a chance to show their barbecue skills.

One charcoal manufacturer predicted this year Americans will eat a record two billion meals outdoors. One manufacturer of cooking equipment predicted sales of grills, spits, chef's hats, aprons, long-handled forks and barbecue accessories of all kinds would total $100 million in 1957, compared with $80 million last year and $45 million the year before.

A survey showed that 84 percent of all American families eat some of their meals outside during the year; 55 percent of all families prepare an outdoor meal one to three times a month, 19 percent four to six times a month, and five percent more than 10 times a month.

Today, reported one source, 36 percent of all homes in the United States have either a portable grill or outdoor fireplace, and the number increases each year. This year, the company said, the nation will buy 140 thousand tons of charcoal briquets.

The result has been a boom in businesses entering to the outdoor chef—representing producers in such diverse fields as foods, condiments and cookbooks, garden supplies and furniture, even building and architectural concerns.

The barbecue boom is the result of the casual living trend said Ralph Olswang, head of one outdoor equipment manufacturer more persons own cars and can get to picnic grounds. More persons live in the suburbs, where patio or backyard meals are popular. There is more leisure time. And each year the cooking equipment gets better.

It also gets fancier. A tour, for instance, of New York firms selling outdoor equipment shows you can spend as much, or as little, as you want. "A lot" may be $100 for an electrically-powered spit which starts with the touch of a button.

A TWIN GRILL

This season, for the first time, Olswang's company features "His and Hers" grill, a twin one with hood and motorized spit. Other grills have cooking thermometer built in.

Among the more elaborate are wagon grills with enclosed pots and cutting boards.

But retailers report the biggest sellers are the barbecues and braziers selling for $10 to $20.

Most of the equipment is bought by men, Olswang said, and most of the time they also use it.

"The outdoor chef thinks nothing of roasting duck or turkey," said Olswang. "The steak and hamburger chef of a few years ago now cooks like a graduate of the Cordon Bleu."

WHY NOT COOK FISH LIKE MEAT?

By Ida Bailey Allen

TOP TO BOTTOM: Halibut with Potato Balls; Panned Fillets of Flounder Meuniere; Fishburgers and baked sea bass with onions.

"It is my opinion that most people would eat more fish, if more home-makers cooked it like meat, instead of fry, fry, fry!"

"Stop sputtering, Chef," I laughed, "and explain."

"Very well, Madame. Fish is a first-class protein food which has nutritive values equal to meat like beef, lamb, veal and pork."

Then why is it almost always thickly breaded and fried until dry and tasteless—while the house is being all smelled up?"

"Because many homemakers do not realize that fish really is nutritionally like meat and that it can be easily broiled, baked or roasted, boiled, braised, fried, sauteed, pot-roasted or made into fishburgers."

"I have two rules for buying and cooking fish, Madame. When buying, whole fish it should smell good at the gills; before cooking, line the pan with aluminum foil, then discard the foil after cooking. We have often given recipes for broiling, pan-frying and baking whole fish in this column. I suggest we give them your fine recipe for fishburgers."

Broiled Fishburgers: Put 1 lb. fresh or thawed-frozen fish fillets through the food chopper.

Heat 3/4 c. milk. Add 2 tsp. butter or margarine, 1 c. fine enriched bread crumbs, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper and 1 tsp. lemon juice.

Stir into the crumbs and stir-cook until puffy. Add the fish and chill.

Shape into round flat cakes like hamburgers. Roll in melted margarine. Dust with flour.

Broil at moderate temperature allowing 5 min. to each side. Bake once with melted butter or margarine.

Serve plain or on toasted rolls spread with sauce tartare. Garnish with pickles, cress, tomato wedges, and/or coleslaw.

The Baron On Skates

—His One Mistake Made Quite A Splash—

By MAX TRELL

BARON MUNCHHAUSEN lived in his own house on Pin-cushion Street. This is a very strange street. It runs behind the bookstore from the wall to the side of the door.

Only Knarf and Hanid, the Shadow Children with the turned-about names, and Teddy, the Stuffed Bear, and Mary Jane, the Rag Doll, and one or two others knew how to find Pin-cushion Street.

But once you find yourself on this wonderful street, it's no trouble at all finding Baron Munchhausen's house. It's Number 33 1/3 and it's at the end of the street.

Knarf and Teddy came on Baron Munchhausen sitting on the steps of his house, smoking a long clay pipe.

A Hot Sun

"Not a day to go ice-skating in, is it?" Baron Munchhausen said with a smile. He pointed up at the hot sun.

"No," said Knarf. "It's much too warm."

"Baron," said Teddy, remembering something, "did you ever go ice-skating?"

"Of course, he did! Baron Munchhausen has done everything," Knarf said quickly.

Baron Munchhausen smiled.

"Yes, I've gone ice-skating," he finally said. "It was many, many years ago! I was young then. But how I could skate! How I could skate!"

"Do you mean you were a good ice-skater, Baron?" Teddy wanted to know.

on his ice-skates when he used to go skating.

"If you didn't make figures, what did you do, Baron?" Knarf asked.

Wrote The Alphabet

"Well," he said, "I made letters on my skates. I did everything from A to Z. I went through the whole alphabet. And one day, do you know what I did? I wrote out my whole name—Archibald Sylvester Munchhausen. I made only one mistake."

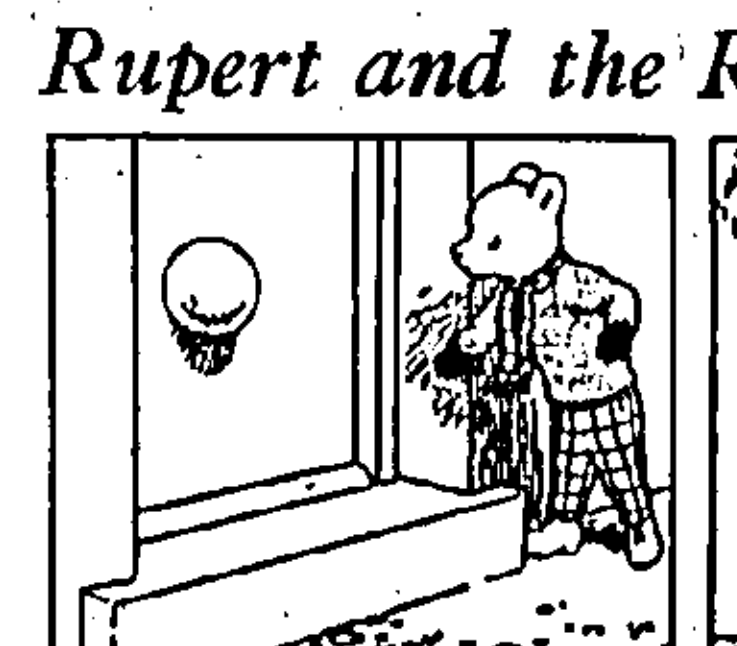

"One mistake, Baron? What was it?" asked Knarf.

"I put a period after my name," the Baron said.

Teddy said: "Why was that a mistake? What was wrong with putting a period after your name?"

Baron Munchhausen sighed. "On ice-skates, it's a mistake to put a period after anything. You see, to make the period I had to come down very hard on the toe of one foot and then spin

The iron gates remain shut. Rupert can't go back so he moves gently forward round the corner of the house. "Hello, there's a way in," he whispers. Then he stops and stares. "Why, here's that ball," he gasps. "How ever did it get up there? Why doesn't it fall?" For the ball is now halfway up the door! But as he is going to touch it, suddenly the door opens abruptly and before him stands the tall stranger smiling queerly, and dressed in old working overalls.

The Baron wrote his name on the ice.

round and round. Ah me! I spun too much. I dug a hole in the ice and fell through. Into the water. It was a very bad mistake. I got soaking wet!"

Knarf looked at Teddy. Teddy looked at Knarf. Could they believe that story?

But Baron Munchhausen kept right on puffing away at his long clay pipe!

SPAIN BEAT SCOTLAND 4-1 IN WORLD CUP GAME

Madrid, May 26.

Spain, attacking for most of the match, defeated Scotland by four goals to one here today in their second leg World Soccer Cup preliminary tie.

The Spaniards scored two goals in each half to make amends for their 4-2 defeat by Scotland in Glasgow in the first leg two weeks ago.

Scotland still lead Group 8 of the European Zone with four points, followed by Spain with three and Switzerland with one. Matches outstanding are Scotland v Switzerland and Switzerland v Spain.

Scotland's goal was scored 13 minutes from the end, when the Spaniards were leading 3-0.

Spain went ahead after 12 minutes when inside-left Mateos sent in a cannonball drive after some fine approach work by the rest of the attack. Scottish goalkeeper Tommy Younger had no chance to save.

Inside-right Kubala ran on to a pass in the 32nd minute to put Spain two up, and 13 minutes after the interval Basora, the outside right, crashed through for the third after a goalmouth scramble.

Scotland's only goal was scored in the 77th minute by outside-right Gordon Smith, from a pass by centre-forward Jackie Mudie.

Four minutes from the end Basora took a flying kick at a fast-moving ball and sent it sizzling past Younger to make the final score 4-1.

PORTUGAL 3, ITALY 0

Lisbon, May 26.

Portugal beat Italy by three goals to nil in their first leg World Soccer Cup qualifying match here today after leading 1-0 at half time.

The return match, in Group 8 of the European Zone, will be played in Italy in December.

Portugal's victory took their points total to three, putting them level with Northern Ireland, the third team in the group.

Northern Ireland have a home match to play against Italy, also in December.

Portugal dominated for periods at the end of each half, their goals coming in the 40th, 82nd and 87th minutes.

Although the Italians had their moments of superiority they wasted several chances, notably at the beginning of the second half when Boniperti, their inside right, missed two open goals.

Portugal were one up at the interval with a goal from outside right Vasquez, after a corner.

Inside right Teixeira put them two up when he headed in the first centre by Mataleu from the right and a few minutes later Mataleu himself sent in a strong shot from centre forward to cement the victory.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA 2, WALES 0

Prague, May 26.

Czechoslovakia avenged their 1-0 defeat at Cardiff earlier this month by beating Wales 2-0 in the second leg World Soccer Cup preliminary match here today.

Czechoslovakia, Wales and England formed the third team in Group 4 of the European Zone—now have two points each.

The score flattered Wales, who were outplayed and outmanoeuvred by the Czechoslovakians and it was only some valiant defensive play which kept the score down.

Centre-half Ray Daniel, one of two players rushed here earlier this week to reinforce the Welsh side, headed through his own goal in the 21st minute.

Left-winger Tadeus Kraus, the star of the Czechoslovak attack, scored their second goal in the second half after a dash along the wing and a crashing drive off an upright.

John Charles, £75,000 Welsh player recently signed by the Italian club Juventus, played at centre-forward today instead of at centre-half, his usual position. He was wasted in the attack as he received few opportunities.

Austria trailed 0-2 at half-time, but goals in the 47th and 60th minutes brought them level. Just on time their inside-left, Walzhofer, was fouled in the Dutch penalty area and Stotz got the winner from the spot.

The Dutch had virtually all the play in the first half, during which the Austrian team showed little cohesion. Improving immensely after the interval, the Austrians took command of the game, which degenerated into over-robustness.

Van Melis opened the scoring for the Netherlands in the 31st minute, finishing on to a faulty pass back by Burschandi, the Austrian left back, to the goalkeeper. Shortly afterwards Van Wissen, the inside right, made it 2-0 for the Dutch.

Koller left half, scored Austria's first goal just after the interval with a great drive from 20 yards. A header from Buzek, the centre forward, produced the equaliser, and the late penalty enabled Austria to pull the match out of the fire.

How to play pitch shots by PETER ALLISS

It's slow motion for the 'birdie makers'

THE pitch shot is the golfer's "birdie maker." It is the stroke that can make up for a bad drive or a stray second—and give you a chance for the correct figure for the hole.

The pictures show me playing a high pitch of around 90 yards with a No. 8, the first at the top and the second at the finish of my swing.

This stroke is played almost in slow motion, quiet and rhythmic. The body is firm but relaxed.

Here are the points to watch:—

1 My feet are close together.

2 My knees are almost in a knee-knocked position but this will stop any tendency to sway.

3 The head is perfectly still.

4 In the second picture showing the finish of the stroke my hands and club have followed right through, and my arms, hands and club are one unit. The whole position is relaxed.

5 I hold the club almost at the end of the grip. There is no need to climb down the grip as the club is shorter.

6 The right knee has swung inward.

Next week: How to get out of bunkers.

UK's 1957-58 Soccer Season Starts On August 24

Less than a month after the close of one football season in England plans are well forward for the start of the 1957-58 campaign which officially begins on August 24.

In the interval, of course, there will still be plenty of soccer activity with the various teams touring abroad, to say nothing of outstanding World Cup preliminary games in various countries.

Manchester United, who were so near the treble of League Championship, Football Association Cup and European Cup, and finished only with the League title, begin their bid for a third successive League title by visiting Leicester City, the League Two champions. Nottingham Forest, who accompanied Leicester into the senior circle, will be at home but their visitors are Preston North End, who finished equal second on points but third on goal average in Division One—two stiff matches for newly promoted teams.

Aston Villa, the Cup winners, could not have had a better drawing card than their first match—away to Birmingham City in a real battle between neighbouring clubs which should bring all Birmingham soccer fans to the St. Andrew's ground.

PROMOTED TEAMS

The two promoted teams from the Third Division section also start with stiff matches. Derby visiting Fulham while Ipswich go to Blackburn.

Relegated Charlton have to travel to Huddersfield but Cardiff, who also went down, entertain their Welsh neighbours, Swansea Town.

There are curiosities about the Third Division. Port Vale, who went into Division Two three seasons ago as Northern Section Champions, now play in the Southern Section, having been relegated. This is because they are a more southern team than the other relegated team, Burnley, who in the Northern section play in Division Three for the first time.

Two clubs which do not know their first opponents are Chester and Gateshead. They have been paired with "A" and "B" respectively, but "A" and "B" will not be identified until June when the question of re-election is considered.

ENGLAND'S TEST TEAM

Trueman And Laker Likeliest To Be Omitted

London, May 26.

England's selectors have played safe for the first Test against the West Indies by choosing 13 players from whom the side to take the field at Edgbaston next Thursday will be finally named.

In so doing they have left themselves several alternatives in the balance of the side, and no doubt the probable weather conditions at the time will decide the ultimate composition of the team.

The 13 players include no surprise choices, and nobody who has not played for England before.

They are: P. B. H. May (Surrey, captain, aged 27), T. E. Bailey (Essex-33), M. C. Cowdrey (Kent-24), D. B. Close (Yorkshire-20), D. J. Insole (Essex-31), J. C. Laker (Surrey-35), G. A. R. Lock (Surrey-27), P. E. Richardson (Worcestershire-25), J. B. Statham (Lancashire-20), F. S. Trueman (Yorkshire-20), J. H. Wardle (Yorkshire-34).

able, the final England choice may be to set as big an array of batting into the arena as possible.

In that case, the batting order may well read: Richardson, Close, Insole, May, Graveney, Cowdrey, Bailey, Evans, Lock, Wardle and Statham.

All these players have made runs this season, for even Statham hit 53 off Warwickshire a week ago.—France-Press.

Should the present settled weather continue, and the Edgbaston pitch appear certain to live up to its reputation for being of easy pace, the selectors may decide to leave but one of the recognised fast bowlers, probably Trueman.

Despite his good start to the season, Trueman gained little success for Yorkshire against the West Indies last week, his one wicket costing well over 100 runs.

In that event the team may eventually include one fast bowler, Statham, plus Trevor Bailey to open, and three main spin bowlers, Laker, Lock and Wardle, supported by the off-spin of Close.

MORE SCOPE

The inclusion of Close, who seems certain to be the opening batsman in partnership with Richardson, also gives the selectors more scope to juggle with the bowling.

Close is no mean off-break bowler, and with him and Bailey in the side the selectors may even feel tempted to bolster the batting by leaving out even two "front line" bowlers from the 13.

In that case the probable omission would be Trueman, for whom Bailey might be an adequate cover, and Laker, since Close could provide off-spin. In any event Laker did not live up to his brilliance of last summer during the tour of South Africa.

With England's batting, as even in recent years, the most brittle part of the team, and the West Indies batsmen so formidable.

PLEVEN TRYING AGAIN

Broadest Possible Coalition Needed To Solve Problems

Paris, May 27.

M. Rene Plevin, former Prime Minister, is trying again today to bring non-Communist political parties together on a "minimum programme" for a new French government.

M. Plevin, a near-Radical, was selected by President Rene Coty as an "honest broker" to search for ways of ending the French political crisis, now in its sixth day.

But his task has been complicated by the Socialists' refusal to commit themselves before they hear "concrete proposals" from some Prime Minister designate.

They want the first move to come from the Conservatives, whose revolt against unpopular tax measures to help pay for the Algerian campaign defeated the Socialist-led Government of M. Guy Mollet in a confidence vote.

Conciliation Bid

M. Plevin today will continue his "conciliation" bid with talks with Conservative, Popular Republican (Catholic) and Radical leaders, and tonight will see M. Robert Lacoste, Socialist Resident Minister in Algeria.

Many French Political leaders, including M. Plevin himself, say that France must have the broadest possible coalition if she is to solve the problems of Algeria and the nation's financial difficulties, and press ahead with implementation of the Euroatom, and Common Market Treaties.—Reuter.

Chain-Smoking Campaign

London, May 26.

The Government was reported today to start a campaign against chain-smoking in an effort to cut the incidence of lung cancer.

The Sunday Express indicated that the campaign would coincide with "new evidence linking heavy smoking with lung cancer" which it said would be presented to the Government by the Medical Research Council, a government body.

Previous government statements, have avoided linking cigarette smoking directly with cancer. But the Council report was said to specify that a "definite association" between them has been established.

According to the Sunday Express, the Government campaign will be directed only at heavy smokers—those who use about 50 cigarettes a day.—United Press.

APPLICATION FOR WRIT OF MANDAMUS

An ex-parte application for a rule in the nature of a mandamus was brought by Mr W. S. Edwards, Chartered Accountant (Aust.) before the Full Court, comprising the Chief Justice, Mr Justice M. J. Hogan, and the Senior Puisne Judge, Mr Justice T. J. Gould this morning.

In the notice of motion, Mr Edwards applied for a writ of mandamus or an order of mandamus or a rule, as may seem meet, calling upon the respondent, Mr A. A. Huggins, a Magistrate and also the accused (named in the notice of motion as Mr E. B. David, Mr K. M. Almo and Mr J. C. McRobert) being parties to be affected to show cause why the aforesaid Magistrate should not issue his warrants to apprehend the accused and to cause them to be brought before a magistrate to answer the charges or complaints and be further dealt with according to law or to issue his summonses directed to the accused requiring them to appear before a magistrate at a time and place to be therein mentioned.

The Grounds

The grounds on which relief was sought were stated in the notice of motion as follows:

1. The respondent failed to hear and determine a sworn information laid on March 27, 1957, according to law.
2. The respondent failed to act judicially in his determination on April 11, 1957.
3. The respondent in purporting to act judicially failed properly to exercise the discretion vested in him under the provision of the Magistrates Ordinance (Cap. 227).
4. The respondent in purporting to act judicially was actuated by extraneous and improper considerations, namely (i) the accused were his civil colleagues and senior officials of the Hongkong Government and the respondent evaded his duty by permitting feat favour, a mistaken sense of loyalty or instructions from the executive to influence him; (ii) materiality of the false statements in the affidavit alleged in the said information.

Mr Edwards further applied for all proceedings on the said information to be stayed until after the hearing of the present motion or further order.

Preliminary Points

Before Mr Edwards proceeded with his application under the notice of motion, two preliminary points were argued by Mr Edwards, who is appearing in person, and Mr Arthur Hoggan, Q.C., Solicitor-General, who stated that he represented the Magistrate.

On the first point as to whether a petitioner may apply in person for order of mandamus, the Court ruled that he may do so in person.

The Court, on the second point, ruled that it could deal with the motion as an application for leave without amending the motion and that the application would be treated as an ex-parte application for leave under section 126 of the Magistrates Ordinance.

Hearing is proceeding.

Adenauer's Escort Plane 'Buzzed'

Gettysburg, May 26.
A plane escorting Dr. Konrad Adenauer's aircraft to Gettysburg today was "buzzed" shortly after taking off from New York. This was disclosed here by Mr. James Haggerty, White House Press Secretary.

He said the plane was carrying American and German security officers. It was "buzzed" by a commercial aircraft. Mr. Haggerty gave no further details. But he said the plane flew on to Gettysburg without further incident.—Reuter.

BUS STRIKE CALLED IN SINGAPORE

Singapore, May 26.

Three hundred and fifty members of the Singapore Bus Workers Union, at a meeting today, decided to go on strike tomorrow afternoon as a protest against their employers' refusal to reinstate 82 dismissed workers.

The men were paid off last October by the Teh Koh Yat and Hock Lee bus companies for participating in a lightning strike which the company management claimed was illegal.

A union spokesman announced tonight that protracted negotiations with company officials did not result in an amicable settlement of the question.

The strike may not seriously affect the city's suburban bus services as the Singapore Transport Workers Union, a rival organisation, representing other workers of two premier Chinese bus lines has called upon its members to carry on their duties.

It is recalled that rivalry between the two unions touched off the colony's riots in October, 1955.—France-Press.

OFFICER MISSED SHIP

Oria Carlson, 31, Second Officer of the Danish motorship Kristen Maersk, was sent to prison for four weeks by Mr D. L. P. Edwards at the Marine Court this morning for negligently remaining in Hongkong after the departure of his ship.

Sub-Inspector Leung Yampok stated that after defendant had missed his ship yesterday morning he reported to the ship's agents, Jebson & Co., who handed him over to the Marine Police.

Defendant said that he spent the night ashore and that he left instructions to be awakened in time to call at 8 a.m. He said the ship had left when he came to the pier.

In imposing a jail term, Mr Edwards said that an officer should set an example to the other men on board the ship.

Disorderly Conduct

An American sailor of the ms Island Mail, Gerald Oles, charged with disorderly conduct and malicious damage, was fined $200 or four weeks by Mr T. L. Yang at Kowloon this morning.

Another defendant, Harry William Hoyce, 30, an officer of the ship, was fined $100 or two weeks for disorderly conduct.

Police told the Court that both defendants were found having in a disorderly manner inside the Kowloon Bar, Hankow Road, and broke three glasses on Saturday.

Taken to Tsimshatsui Police Station, the first defendant threw his shoes and broke a lamp shade inside the charge room.

SHING MUN

FIRST TO OVERFLOW

The Shing Mun reservoir, one of the three large reservoirs in the Colony, is overflowing following continuing rains over the weekend, the Water Authority announced this morning.

The rains during the weekend resulted in a net gain for the reservoirs of 537 million gallons. At 8 a.m. today, total storage amounted to 8,254 million gallons.

Of the other two large reservoirs, Tytun Tuk, with 1,874 million gallons, is nearly full, the water, this morning being only four feet seven inches from the top, and the Colony's newest reservoir at Tai Lam Chung, is now holding 2,404 million gallons. All the smaller reservoirs have been full for some days past.

Shing Mun has a storage capacity of 2,921 million gallons. Rescue workers this morning recovered two more bodies at Tung Tau Village, Kowloon City, bringing the total number dead last week's rains storms to 23.

The bodies recovered are those of a Chinese woman and her five-year-old son who were formerly listed as missing. The Police stated that there are still seven persons unaccounted for from Tung Tau Village. One person has also been listed as missing in the New Territories.

Traffic Easier

The Police Traffic Branch said this morning that travel is becoming easier with the removal of road blocks, although a few roads where the larger earth slips have occurred, still remain impassable.

On the island, Stubbs Road and Tai Hang Road remain closed to all traffic but in Kowloon all roads are now open. In the New Territories, however, Hiram's Highway, which leads to Sai Kung is still closed due to a bridge collapse. Vehicles can only proceed along this road as far as Ho Chung Village.

Bus services have been resumed to Tsun Wan and the Tai Po Road is now open to vehicular traffic under 35 cwt. A total of one inch of rainfall was recorded at the Royal Observatory between 1 a.m. and noon today.

New Libyan Cabinet Formed

Tripoli, May 26.
The new Libyan Cabinet, headed by Abdul Majid Kobar, retaining six ministers from the outgoing Cabinet, apart from Premier Kobar, who was deputy Premier and Foreign Minister in the Mustapha Ben Halim Cabinet which resigned last week.

Three new ministers have been named: Dr. Wahbi Bourli, former Minister, Sidiq Munir, former Ambassador to Egypt, as Defence Minister, and Abdul Hamid Dibany as Minister of Justice.

The Libyan Ambassador to London was recalled for consultation today by the new Premier.—France-Press.

Raft Sinks

Santiago, May 26.
The raft Tahiti Nui sank today, but the crew was saved, it was reported here late tonight.—United Press.

The Tahiti Nui sank in the Pacific Ocean in a storm while the tow cable snapped, again due to the bad condition of the raft, according to Carlos Garcia Palacios, press officer for the expedition.

The sinking occurred after the tow cable snapped, again due to the bad condition of the raft, according to Carlos Garcia Palacios, press officer for the expedition.

All the crew and half the equipment of the Tahiti Nui were picked up by the Baquedano, which is now heading for Valparaiso.—United Press.

JOHN CLARKES CASEBOOK

The Defence Rests

THE first time he stood in the dock at Bow Street, Tim's story persuaded many that he was victim of a general misunderstanding or, at worst, of his own folly.

Tim is a heavily-moustached, fluent and well-spoken man who looks like a faded cavalry major, one come down in the world but bearing misfortune with fortitude. He was charged with embezzling $28 from his employer, for whom he worked as a salesman-van driver, in the wholesale green-grocer business.

CROSS-EXAMINED
TIM's employer told the story of his loss, and then had to submit to a careful cross-examination from his late employee. Tim's case seemed to be that he had taken the money—if indeed money had been taken, which he did not admit in lieu of commission owing, expenses due and similar matters.

He argued so well, and took so long over it that the case had to be remanded. "What about bail," asked Sir Laurence Dundas, the chief magistrate. "I don't want bail," Tim said. His week in the remand prison was his undoing. For he had too much time on his hands there. Time to dream up in the greatest detail a totally different defence. He said nothing, when he next appeared, of money owing to him, instead:

"I Woke Up"
"THE truth is," Tim said, "I collected the $28 that day, and when I had finished work, went to have a wash and brush up, then I had a cup of tea. After that, I remembered nothing, until I woke up in my lodgings next morning and found the money gone. Then I panicked."

Panle took him to Bourne-mouth, Southampton, Brighton, to the last of which he went, he said, to seek advice from a policeman he knew. Before he could do that, other policemen arrested him.

"Case proved," said Sir Laurence. "Anything left?" "There were six previous convictions. Tim had spent many months in gaol for fraud and false pretences. He was sent to Sessions for sentence, and he went away thoughtfully, as if, already, an entirely new defence was simmering in his mind.
